Live-in Care Workers are employed to work with a service user on a one to one, 24 hour basis in order to provide care and support to the service user as detailed specifically in the care plan designed to meet their needs.

Your role as a live-in care worker will mean having a person centred approach at all times, the ability to work independently, maintaining a respectable and professional relationship with the service user, and observing confidentiality at all times.

Your duties will vary from personal care to shopping, light duty house work to providing companionship.

Experience is preferable, but we interview candidates on an individual basis and take into account personal experience and attributes.

Very competitive pay rates.
